The Department of Computer Science & Technology has organized a Pre-Placement series for 6th-semester students. This training is started as a series where the alumni of CST department share their experience with current students and provide them with necessary knowledge about the training. The second session of this training was delivered by Mr. Amitash M S, Associate, Nokia.

Mr. Amitash M S explained how to prepare for placement and why it is important. He also emphasised on the necessary skills one should have, and the tools one should learn. He also cleared the doubts of students in a Q & A session. The session was very effective from a placement preparation point of view and a total of 23 students attended this training.
